

Bees are the most important pollinators of many agricultural crops.